Agenda

Las cuatro libertades esenciales

- ✓ Libertad 0: de ejecutar el software como te plazca y con cualquier objetivo
- ✓ Libertad 1: de estudiar como funciona el programa y cambiarlo a tu gusto.
- ✓ Esto implica el poder acceder a su código fuente
- ✓ Libertad 2: de poder redistribuir copias del programa a los demás
- ✓ Libertad 3: de poder distribuir también tus mejoras al programa original.

Preamble. The GNU General Public License is a free, copyleft license for software and other kinds of works. The licenses for most software and other practical works are designed to take away your freedom to share and change the works.
By contrast, the GNU General Public License is intended to guarantee your freedom to share and change all versions of a program to make sure it remains free software for all its users. For the Free Software Foundation, the GNU General Public License for most of our software applies also to any other work released this way by its authors.
You can apply it to your programs, too.

We call work that is free software, not because it is free of charge, but because it is free to use. The GNU General Public License is designed to make sure that you have the freedom to distribute copies of free software (and charge for them if you wish), that you receive source code or can get it if you want it, that you can change the software or your pieces of it in new programs, and that you know you can do these things. To protect your rights, we need to prevent others from denying you these rights or asking you to surrender the rights. Therefore, you have certain responsibilities to you distribute copies of the software. 00 15 you fulfill the responsibilities to respect the freedom of others. For example, if you distribute copies of such a program, whether gratis or for a fee, you must pass on to the recipients the same freedom that you received. You must make sure that they, too, receive or can get the source code. And you must show these terms so they know their rights.
